

IF YOU ARE SERIOUS ABOUT DOING BUSINESS IN SPORT YOU SHOULD BE AT THE YAHOO SPORTS TECHNOLOGY AWARDS

If you could go to an event that delivered great networking, unrivalled industry insight and was a value night out with your clients and team, you'd probably want to be there?

If you really are serious about doing business in international sport, you should be at the Awards, here's are just three reasons you should be booking your place

- Hundreds of international, C-suite sports executives fly in to London especially for the Awards. If you want to meet decision makers in sport, you need to be there
- The technology shortlisted at the Awards has been described as 'business-changing', 'the future' and 'absolutely, hands down, one of the best new technologies' about – if you want to see what is shaping the sector before anyone else, make sure you're in the room
- You won't just encounter industry 'suits' on the evening, many world-class athletes join the celebrations too, making it one of the great evenings in the sports business calendar
